About the Greenhouses:

Aarhus University is now finalizing the construction of a new palm house and restoration of the existing Greenhouses in the Botanical Gardens including a new knowledge center with changing exhibitions. C.F. Møller Architects, an architectural firm based in Aarhus, won in 2009 the competition to design the new Greenhouses with an estimated building cost of DKK 64 million.

The new Greenhouses will be officially inaugurated in September 2014, but we can already get a sneak peek behind the scenes and see the plant collections.
