ABOUT THE HOSPITAL AND THE MUSEUM

The psychiatric hospital opened in 1852. It is situated in beautiful old buildings, designed by Bindesbøll, one of Denmark's most important architects, and surrounded by a great park (at least until the coming move to Skejby Hospital). The Museum is housed in the hospital's original old kitchen building and comprises both the Psychiatric History Museum and the Art Museum, Museum Ovartaci. The Psychiatric History Museum is dedicated to the history of psychiatry, here you will find furniture and wards from the 1st, 2nd and 3rd class catering. The art museum has a collection of about 9,000 works, of which 850 can be seen in the exhibition. All works are created by artists with mental disorders, and the name of the museum comes from the artist Ovartaci, who was a patient at the Hospital from 1929 until his death in 1985.

Sign up by sending an email to Ellen (elno@birc.au.dk) no later than 11 June.
